

Previously Approved Special Provisions

Previously approved special provisions (PASP) have been reviewed and approved for use by the Design Division - Quality Assurance Section. These documents are to be used whenever possible to reduce the variation in descriptions of work, construction, measurement, and payment for similar items of work. PASPs consist of six types of special provisions, they are:

Recommended special provisions are for work which has been performed multiple times and language has been adopted that provides for the best practice and outcome for the work being done. These files are in Adobe Acrobat format (pdf) and should not be modified.

Template special provisions that have the majority of the language fixed for performing the actual work except for project specific information that must be added. These files will be in Microsoft Word format.

Unique Approved Special Provisions are all other reviewed and approved special provisions in Microsoft Word format. These can be used again without review if there are no changes required to use them in another project. If they are revised in any way then they must be resubmitted for review and approval following the normally procedures.

Real Estate Demolition special provisions are to be used to remove property fixtures when these properties have not been cleared prior to the construction of the project. These special provisions cover different items that may need to be removed or cleared from the property before the contractor can continue with construction of the roadway.

Intelligent Transportation System special provisions are for work that has been performed multiple times and language has been adopted that provides for the best practice, alignment and outcome for the work being done.

Innovative Contracting special provisions are unique recommended and template special provisions for certain types of innovative contracting types that allows the designers to use the same basic language to cover the work to be done with either no changes or minor modifications for project specific locations and values.

As a rule when using this site, special provisions in Acrobat format are intended to be used without revision and no further review and approval is required. Special provisions in Microsoft Word formats may be revised and in some cases (template SP's) must be revised to include project specific details.
